

ANNUAL REPORT

SATHYA SAI INTERNATIONAL ORGANISATION

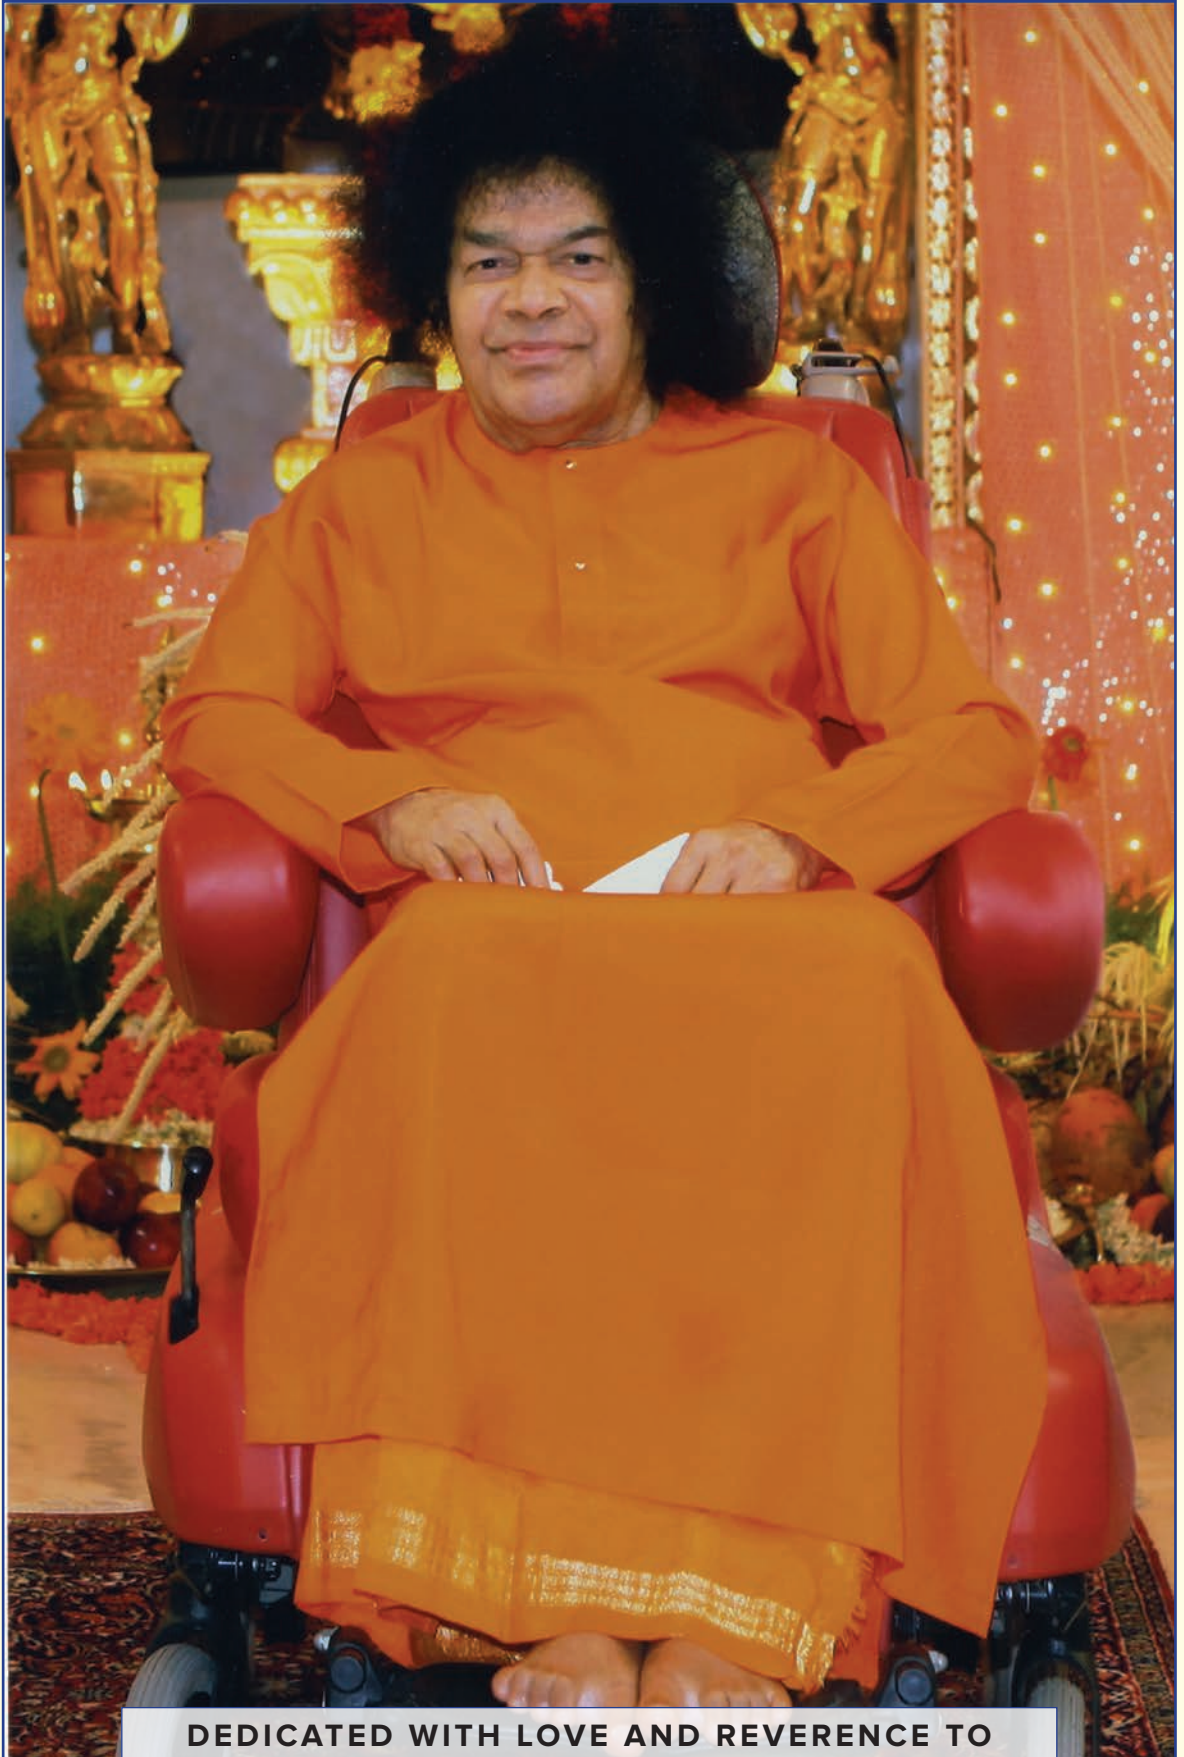

2013-2014

“Love alone can reveal the Divinity latent in all. Love is God. Live in love. Love lives by giving and forgiving; Self lives by getting and forgetting. Love is selflessness; Selfishness is lovelessness. Do not waste your life pursuing the narrow interests of the self. Love! Love! Become what you truly are – the embodiments of love.”

–Sri Sathya Sai Baba, 25th December, 1979

DEDICATED WITH LOVE AND REVERENCE TO

Sri Sathya Sai Baba

“First, what should be the characteristics of persons in the Sai Organisation? Their hearts should be cool like the moon. Their minds should be pure like butter. Their speech should be sweet like honey. It is only when you have a heart cool as the moon, a mind pure as butter and speech sweet as honey, will you be a worthy member of the Organisation. When these three qualities are present, there will be Divinity.”

–Sri Sathya Sai Baba, 20th November, 1995

FOREWORD

“Treat all as the children of one God. Whomsoever you may serve, consider you are serving God. Then you will experience the Divine. You are bound to have that experience soon. Never give up the Organisation. Regard it as the breath of your life. This is real penance. Having this firm resolve, become exemplary leaders. This is My sole desire. Swami’s love will accompany you everywhere.”

–Bhagawan Sri Sathya Sai Baba, 18th November 1984

Bhagawan Sri Sathya Sai Baba is the incarnation of love. His love transcends the boundaries of time and space. Bhagawan says, “God is love; love is God; live in love.” He exhorts us, “Start the day with love; fill the day with love; end the day with love—this is the way to God.” The best way to love God is to love all and serve all. Loving service purifies the heart and makes us realise our innate divinity. Bhagawan not only exhorted us, He also set an example through the various institutions He established, such as the educational institutions, which are temples of learning; the medical institutions, which are temples of healing; and the mammoth water projects and other projects that serve humanity at large. His life is His message.

Bhagawan gave to us not only this message, legacy, and the honour of being part of His mission of love, but also the means to do this in the form of the Sathya Sai International Organisation (SSIO). The SSIO has been serving society through various activities, including educational, medical, disaster relief, community service, and spiritual activities all over the world. This Annual Report gives the highlights of such activities for the period April 2013–March 2014 at the regional, national, and international levels. These activities were conducted through the efforts of nearly 2,000 Sathya Sai Centres in 126 countries.

The education report herein highlights the character-building pedagogic activities of 30 Institutes of Sathya Sai Education (ISSEs), 39 Sathya Sai Schools, manifold Sathya Sai Education in Human Values (EHV) programmes worldwide, and Sai Spiritual Education (SSE) programmes in 86 countries.

Bhagawan propounds that healthcare is the fundamental right of every human being. Inspired by the ideals set forth by Sri Sathya Sai Baba on healthcare, many dedicated medical professionals and volunteers rendered comprehensive, universal, state-of-the-art medical services, free of charge, with love and compassion, to more than 170,000 patients in about 35 countries, during the reporting period. The medical report gives an overview of these activities, which were delivered through medical camps, medical clinics, mobile clinics, and also through veterinary camps.

Youth are the future leaders and are an integral part of the SSIO. The report on Sathya Sai Youth summarises the service, educational, and spiritual activities conducted by the youth around the globe. Sathya Sai Youth mobilised a global initiative called “Serve the Planet,” focussing during this reporting period on the theme, “Feeding the Needy.” This initiative was carried out with love and unity by members of the SSIO throughout the world on or around 20th October 2013, in honour of Avatar Declaration Day—the day when Bhagawan Sri Sathya Sai Baba revealed His divinity and His divine mission in 1940.

This Annual Report also highlights the activities of various community service projects, such as offering food, clothing, school supplies, and daily provisions to the needy; constructing and repairing homes and community buildings; visiting homes for the elderly, prisons, and convalescent hospitals; mentoring at-risk students; and providing humanitarian relief to those in need following natural disasters such as hurricanes, floods, and earthquakes.

Immediately after the destruction caused by Super Typhoon Haiyan in November 2013 in the Philippines, the SSIO sprang into action. Since then, beyond the initial stages of disaster relief, the SSIO has continued to provide medical and dental services, food to the needy, and school supplies to the children. The SSIO also undertook reconstruction of a damaged school in the affected area. In addition to the Philippines, the SSIO engaged in disaster relief projects in Croatia, Serbia, Bosnia/Herzegovina, Indonesia, Italy, Sri Lanka, and Haiti. For its timely and exemplary services, the SSIO has been honoured with awards and recognition by authorities in many countries.

The Prasanthi Events report herein showcases cultural activities performed by members of the SSIO in Prasanthi Nilayam during the reporting period. These activities emphasised the harmony of religions and the universality of all faiths, reinforcing Bhagawan’s message that there is only one religion, the religion of love.

Bhagawan teaches us that the hands that help are holier than the lips that pray, and that wherever His work is done, He manifests Himself there. Many of those who follow His message and teachings and serve selflessly have had personal experiences of His omnipresence. His message of love and selfless service continues to inspire and transform millions around the world. We pray to our loving Lord Sathya Sai to lead us from untruth to truth, from darkness to light, from death to immortality, from duality to nonduality, from diversity to unity, and from grief and despondency to eternal bliss. We are indeed blessed and fortunate to participate in His divine mission. May we redeem our lives by His divine grace and blessings.

“We should get rid of the thought that service activities are being done for others. You should understand that they are being undertaken for your own sake and for your own betterment.”

SATHYA SAI GLOBAL HEALTH MISSION

“Even more than the drugs the doctors prescribe, the sweet, soft words they speak and the love and sympathy they evince can cure better and quicker the illness of their patients. Look upon them as your own kith and kin, as your special guests and as your closest friends and attend them lovingly and with unflinching care. I call upon you to maintain this attitude in every situation.”

– Sri Sathya Sai Baba, 28th August, 1976

For many years, the SSIO has been providing free healthcare in a timely fashion for those who need it most. Bhagawan has repeatedly blessed this effort to help needy patients globally, and the SSIO has stepped up its efforts through medical camps, medical clinics, dental camps and clinics, medical education and teaching, and the delivery of healthcare for people in need after massive natural disasters.

During this reporting period, an estimated 100,000 patients were lovingly treated in 28 medical clinics in nine countries. In addition, about 72,000 patients were seen in 144 medical and dental camps in more than 35 countries. Sathya Sai Mobile Clinics served more than 32,000 patients in four countries. Over 100 blood donation camps were held in six countries, collecting about 10,000 pints of blood. About 3,500 doctors, paramedics and volunteers participated in this loving service in every continent except Antarctica.

The SSIO also arranged for 25 overseas physicians and 28 dentists to rotate in the Sri Sathya Sai Institute of Higher Medical Sciences (SSSIHMS) and the Sri Sathya Sai General Hospital (SSSGH) in India, where they saw about 6,900 patients. Two medical camps were held in Prasanthi Nilayam, in which about 5,900 patients were examined. In addition, teaching and training of medical residents at SSSGH and SSSIHMS were conducted in paediatrics, family medicine, cardiology, CTVS, neurosurgery, orthopaedic surgery, and radiology.

The Sathya Sai International Center for Medical Services shipped medical equipment and goods to many countries, including India.

CONCLUSION

True to the exhortations of Bhagawan Sri Sathya Sai Baba, health care professionals who are His devotees continue to render loving, selfless services to the needy, the destitute, the afflicted, the children, and the elderly throughout the world, without regard for benefit, recognition, or reward. The SSIO continues to organise and facilitate the delivery of high-quality medical care where it is needed most, with the help of both medical and nonmedical volunteers. The love and compassion with which the services are rendered have drawn recognition from local government authorities in many instances. The vast, global Sathya Sai system of free healthcare continues to expand every year, touching more and more people, and transforming their hearts with love for all—in accordance with the vision of Bhagawan.

“Doctors should be grateful to society for all the knowledge and skills they have acquired from the dedicated labours of others. They should realise their deep indebtedness to society for all they have received from it. Only then, they will use their knowledge and skills in the right way.”

– Sri Sathya Sai Baba, 7th February, 1993

SATHYA SAI EDUCATION

“Let the message of this educational revolution, insisting on the resurgence of the divine in man, spread to every street and home. You have My blessings in ample measure. You can receive guidance and help always in the fulfilment of this task.”

–Sri Sathya Sai Baba, 31st December, 1984

Sathya Sai Education encourages a lifelong process of holistic transformation for children and adults through Educare and its applications in Sai Spiritual Education (SSE) and Sathya Sai Education in Human Values (EHV). During this reporting period, consolidation and advancement of Sathya Sai educational activities continued across the globe, highlights of which are reported below.

SAI SPIRITUAL EDUCATION (SSE)

Sai Spiritual Education (SSE) is based on the philosophy of Sathya Sai Educare and emphasises spiritual awakening through character development and self-transformation. The SSE programme, formerly known as Bal Vikas (“blossoming of the child”), was initially established for the children of Sathya Sai devotees and is delivered through the Education Wing of the Sathya Sai Organisation. During this reporting period, SSE programmes took place regularly in more than 90 countries, and considerable progress was made in preserving interest in SSE among teenagers, through innovative and inspiring pedagogical approaches.

SATHYA SAI EDUCATION IN HUMAN VALUES (EHV)

Sathya Sai Education in Human Values (EHV) focusses on the signal importance of practising the five universal human values of truth, right conduct, peace, love, and nonviolence, throughout one’s life. Aimed at people who are not formally associated with the Sathya Sai Organisation, EHV programmes are taking many new and exciting forms, and are being extended beyond traditional school settings into community groups and organisations. These programmes are spreading rapidly across cultural, religious, and other “boundaries,” in more than 50 countries.

INSTITUTES OF SATHYA SAI EDUCATION (ISSE)

The Institutes of Sathya Sai Education (ISSEs) are legally-constituted bodies that operate under the supervision of the Education Committee of the SSIO. The 30 ISSEs around the world are engaged in a variety of EHV-related activities, which include organising teacher and facilitator training, maintaining cooperative oversight of Sathya Sai Schools, developing and publishing human-values training materials for schools and communities, conducting workshops for parents, and other activities.

SATHYA SAI SCHOOLS

The 39 Sathya Sai Schools outside India serve as models for the integration of EHV into the mainstream curricula of schools and other educational organisations. They express and encourage key aspects of an ideal education: a pedagogy of integral education that integrates spirituality into academic curriculum, an emphasis on the role of the teacher as exemplar, a school culture based on unconditional love, and life application of the five universal human values—truth, right conduct, peace, love, and nonviolence. Sathya Sai Schools have achieved glowing reputations and are widely recognised as being among the top schools in their respective countries with regard to academic achievement, exemplary citizenship, and excellence of character.

ZONE 1 COUNTRIES

The Canadian ISSE convened a national meeting of Sathya Sai leaders to develop action plans to ensure that EHV becomes recognised as an ideal model for education by 2020. During the first quarter of 2014, the Institute sponsored a national “Art from the Heart” art contest, to nurture positive values in students and to create awareness of the ISSE of Canada and its programmes. The Institute is expanding parenting and other outreach programmes to new populations across Canada and establishing ethical guidelines for research. The Sathya Sai School of Toronto tied for the number-one position among the top schools in Ontario, for the eighth consecutive year.

In Israel, the basic theories of Educare were presented to participants at a recent EHV workshop. One notable feature of this workshop was that it brought Jews and Arabs together in harmonious pursuit of a common, human-values-centred goal. This is a prime example of how Bhagawan’s approach to Educare can sponsor unity and harmony under extremely adverse conditions. Ongoing SSE teacher training is another area of activity in Israel.

The ISSE of the USA completed its third annual residential instructional programme and established formal partnerships with two Montessori schools and another educational organisation. EHV programmes were initiated in two elementary schools, a middle school, and two universities. EHV community projects are underway in an adult prison, a youth detention centre, and a shelter for battered women. A comprehensive text, the Sathya Sai Educare Study Guide, was also published by the Institute.

A national survey was conducted to learn more about how challenges facing SSE teachers and students might be creatively addressed. Several SSE summer camps were held in various parts of the country.

The ISSE of the West Indies offered Course One for educators and conducted EHV workshops and introductory presentations to a wide range of educational professionals and community leaders. Training for teachers was conducted in partnership with the Youth, Culture, and Sports Ministry. A teachers’ and parents’ handbook and a series of articles on Educare were published, along with new guidelines for early childhood education centres.

ZONES 2A AND 2B COUNTRIES

The Latin American countries of Zones 2A and 2B are Spanish-, Portuguese-, and French-speaking, and are host to 11 ISSEs—in Mexico, El Salvador, Puerto Rico, Dominican Republic, Guadeloupe, Venezuela, Colombia, Ecuador, Peru, Brazil, and Argentina. There are also 14 Sathya Sai Schools in the two zones—two in Mexico, one in Guatemala, one in Colombia, two in Ecuador, one in Venezuela, five in Brazil, one in Argentina, and one in Paraguay. The ISSEs support EHV activities in dozens of public and private schools, in nearly every country in Latin America. They also provide after-hours EHV school care in nine complementary Sathya Sai Schools in Colombia, Venezuela, Argentina, and the Dominican Republic. They have recently developed an innovative network among the Institutes to offer inter-institute courses. Following the national standards of different countries, basic and advanced courses on EHV have reached thousands of professional teachers. Most of the Sathya Sai Schools extend from primary through secondary levels and teach more than 1,650 students across Latin America. EHV programmes for teenagers have also been established in several countries.

The ISSE of Brazil continues to enhance and extend various training programmes while providing a wide range of other Sathya Sai School and EHV-related activities through its branches across the country. During the reporting period, graduate students completed MSc and PhD theses based on EHV at universities in Brazil and Mexico. CONCLUSION

This reporting period has seen consolidation and expansion of Sathya Sai educational activities throughout the world, in countries with both large and relatively small Sathya Sai Organisations. Strong evidence continues to emerge from the ISSEs and Sathya Sai Schools indicating that integration of spirituality into the educational process has powerful and lasting transformative effects on the character, cultural achievements, and academic attainments of children, adolescents, and adults, as well as across the local communities in which those individuals reside. Sathya Sai educators continue to serve as instruments of Bhagawan Sri Sathya Sai Baba in His universal educational mission.

“You are eating an apple. Is it for the benefit of the apple, that you are eating it? No, it is for your own health! Similarly your actions, worship or meditation is only for your own happiness and satisfaction. The only thing God cares for is purity and steadfastness. Purity in thought, word and actions is all that matters to God.”

SATHYA SAI YOUTH

“The youth of today are the future leaders of the nation and the architects of the new society. The future of a nation depends on its youth. The strength of the youth lies in their spirit of patriotism. The primary duty of the youth is to render service to the society. The physical and mental strength of the youth is the foundation on which a nation is built.”

–Sri Sathya Sai Baba, 14th January, 2000

The Sathya Sai Youth Programme was established by the SSIO to encourage youth between the ages of 18 and 35 to learn and practise human values as defined by the life and teachings of Bhagawan Sri Sathya Sai Baba. Currently, the programme is established in 75 countries outside of India. The programme was developed to provide a forum for like-minded youth to meet, discuss, and encourage one another in leading a purposeful life based on human values.

Sathya Sai youth around the world are actively engaged in community service projects, and in spearheading key initiatives related to education, environment, disaster relief, and rehabilitation. Sathya Sai youth have been gaining experience in facilitating youth camps, retreats, and conferences. A number of youth currently hold key leadership positions in the SSIO and continue to support various humanitarian and other activities conducted by the SSIO.

As an offering for Bhagawan's 88th Birthday, Sathya Sai youth around the globe were blessed with the opportunity to prepare birthday cards for Him, which were compiled and offered in a Treasure Box.

A "Serve the Planet" (STP) initiative was launched on 20th October 2013 as a global service project of the SSIO. On this date in 1940, our dearest Lord Sai, founder of this noble spiritual organisation, declared His divine mission to re-establish the practice of human values around the world. The goal of the STP initiative was to unite Sathya Sai volunteers around the world in a common service project in their respective geographic areas. Sathya Sai youth, along with senior members of the organisation, had formulated this programme with the intent that it be conducted on the same day around the globe and that it implement Bhagawan's message of Love in Action. Participation by the public was also encouraged. The theme of the STP initiative in 2013 was "Feeding the Needy."

Sathya Sai volunteers throughout the world (outside of India) joined the youth in serving breakfast, lunch, and dinner, including hot meals, to the homeless living on the streets and to residents of homeless shelters, community centres, homes for the elderly, children's homes, convalescent hospitals, nursing homes, orphanages, and women's shelters, and to patients and their families at emergency rooms in hospitals. Sathya Sai volunteers joined the youth also in delivering food to communities living in extreme poverty. Food baskets containing supplies such as grains, cereal, oil, milk, pasta, rice, fresh vegetables, and fruit were distributed to needy families and refugees. Sathya Sai youth gathered at local food banks to pack thousands of food bags to be delivered to low-income families and seniors.

The October 2013 STP initiative undertaken by the Sathya Sai youth grew into a worldwide service project with nearly 10,000 Sathya Sai volunteers jointly serving an estimated 60,000 needy people. Some of the volunteers undertook programmes to serve and care for animals. Inspired by the global response for the 2013 STP initiative, the 2014 STP theme, "Children: Our Future," was announced by the SSIO.

In addition to the STP initiative, Sathya Sai volunteers and youth also continued to offer various other services to the needy, such as organising blood-donations drives, medical camps, and healthy-living programmes; providing hygiene kits and cleaning supplies to selected groups; providing birthing kits for disadvantaged women; offering haircuts, showers, and clean clothes, shoes, and bedding to the homeless; conducting service activities for the mentally challenged; providing school supplies to children; planting trees and vegetable gardens in needy communities; teaching human values and stress-relieving exercises; participating in park restoration projects; collecting rubbish on city and village streets; cleaning beaches and riverbanks; and renovating houses for needy people.

They are demonstrating leadership qualities, talents, and skills that will slowly and steadily transform society all over the world. The sample of selfless service activities and events reported above serves to indicate the vast and limitless potential of the Sai youth for divinising the world. They are truly the "Ambassadors of Love" for our beloved Lord, Bhagawan Sri Sathya Sai Baba.

EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITIES

On 15th June 2013, about 500 Sathya Sai Organisation members in the Greater Toronto area held a consecration ceremony for the Sathya Sai School, Canada, at its new premises at 451 Ellesmere Road, Scarborough. The ceremony brought together religious leaders from Hinduism, Buddhism, Zoroastrianism, Judaism, Islam, and Christianity in a multifaith event, as well as local, regional, and national elected government officials. The ceremony began with groups of SSE children led by multifaith representatives dressed in traditional religious garb and carrying banners for each of the five human values: truth, right conduct, love, peace and nonviolence. Following the welcome speech by Dr. Thayanathan Thayaparan, Chairman, SSIO Canada, the multifaith representatives spoke about the teachings of their sacred scriptures and offered prayers from their respective religions. City Councillor Raymond Cho presented the principal of the Sathya Sai School with a certificate on behalf of the Toronto City Council and Ward 42, Scarborough-Rouge River, commemorating the consecration ceremony. He spoke about the excellent and ongoing cooperation between the SSIO of Canada, the City of Toronto, and the community.

The first “Walk for Values” was initiated in 2003 by the Sathya Sai School, Canada, to encourage participants to pledge to the practice of a human value for the following year and to spread awareness of the human values. The walkathon has since spread to ten cities across Canada and to four continents, involving nearly 40 cities. A wonderful show of unity was displayed at the 11th Annual Walk for Values in Canada, held during May and June 2013 in the cities of Cornwall, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton, Yellowknife, and Vancouver. The venues prominently displayed banners and signs on human values.

In Toronto, a stage adorned with colourful flags of countries around the world symbolised the unity of various cultures, faiths, and ideologies. Several thousand people participated in this event, held in front of the city hall. Members from various faith groups attended the event. A Catholic priest paid homage to Sathya Sai Baba, Jesus, Buddha, Mohammed, and other prophets and thanked everyone for bringing joy and happiness to the City of Toronto. The Honourable Jim Karygiannis, Member of Parliament, presented a certificate from the Government of Canada to the Sathya Sai School Parent Council for hosting the Toronto “Walk for Values,” stating, “For your commitment to fostering a sense of community among Canadians of all backgrounds...to ensure our bright and sustainable future...I know that you will continue to help better the lives of all Canadians, and strive to do the same worldwide.”

The processions in Edmonton, Vancouver, and Toronto featured mobile floats, attractively decorated with the names of the five human values (truth, right conduct, love, peace, and nonviolence). Edmonton’s Walk was held at McIntyre Park, a local hub of the city. In Winnipeg, participants marched in front of the Manitoba Legislative Building and along the beautiful Assiniboine River. In Yellowknife, Sathya Sai devotees joined the Canada Day Parade, carrying banners on human values and quotes from Bhagawan. Saskatoon’s Walk for Values was inaugurated by the city councillor, Mr. Randy Donaeur, who spoke about the importance of practising human values in daily life.

Dedicated to promoting character education in schools, the ISSE of Canada invited public schools in Canada as well as the Sathya Sai School of Canada and SSE students to submit entries for a national art contest titled “Art from the Heart,” in order to nurture positive values in students. The contest was held from 1st February through 30th April 2014.

In March 2014, the ISSE also introduced the Dynamic Value Parenting programme, earlier developed by the Sathya Sai Organisation, as a community outreach initiative at a Gurudwara in Toronto.

AVATAR DECLARATION DAY

Sathya Sai Centres across Canada responded to the “Serve the Planet” initiative by offering food to the hungry on 20th October 2013. In British Columbia, the Sathya Sai Centre of Vancouver organised a service event in downtown Eastside Vancouver. Volunteers prepared and served food to more than 300 individuals at Oppenheimer Park. In Ontario, the Young Adult Wing of the Organisation conducted a day-long project, serving breakfast, lunch, and dinner to the homeless in Toronto. In other parts of Ontario, Sathya Sai volunteers delivered food to shelters, soup kitchens, and other institutions that serve individuals facing homelessness and other challenges. In Brampton, for example, volunteers delivered 341 pounds of food to the Knight’s Table Soup Kitchen.

GUYANA

MEDICAL SERVICES

A critical need for uterine fibroid surgeries was first brought to the attention of the SSIO of Guyana in August 2012 following the Divine Showers Youth Convention, which was attended by His Excellency Donald Ramotar, President of Guyana. At the president’s urging, arrangements for the services of an international medical team of Sathya Sai volunteers from the USA were finalised in early 2013, in close cooperation with government authorities.

Two Sathya Sai medical teams from the USA, consisting of four to five individuals each, performed 52 uterine fibroid surgeries at Georgetown Hospital and West Demerara Hospital in Guyana from 8th–23rd November 2013. Every surgery performed was successful, and not a single patient screened for surgery was left out. The patients diagnosed with fibroids had been waiting patiently for four to seven years. Consequently, many of them had extraordinarily large uterine fibroids with multiple adhesions and lesions, which led to complicated surgeries lasting over three hours in many cases.

EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITIES

An Educare workshop was conducted on Saturday, 12th October 2013, by the ISSE of West Indies, Guyana Chapter, at the New Opportunity Corps (NOC). This is a detention facility for delinquent youth located on the Essequibo River, which can be reached only by boat. During the course of the journey, Sathya Sai volunteers were fortunate to experience an unplanned encounter with the Honourable Donald Ramotar, president of Guyana, who happened to be in the area. Upon learning about the upcoming workshop on human values, the president wanted to meet with the Sathya Sai educators. Three Sathya Sai educators accordingly met with President Ramotar and briefed him about the workshop at NOC, which was an outcome of a Sathya Sai conference the president had attended earlier. This fortuitous meeting was believed to be a result of Sathya Sai Baba's grace, since the group had unsuccessfully tried to get attention from a lower-level minister earlier, for the same event.

The Educare workshop was held successfully. The youth who attended the presentation were well behaved, alert, receptive, and participated fully in the workshop. The staff and youth inmates of NOC then presented musical programmes to show their appreciation for the loving services rendered. The NOC was impressed with the presentations and requested that the Sathya Sai educators return within two weeks to conduct another workshop for the remaining staff. They also requested that the group hold a workshop at Kuru Kuru College of Education, about 30 kilometres from Georgetown.

BHAGAWAN'S MAHA SAMADHI OBSERVANCE

As an offering to Bhagawan on the second anniversary of Bhagawan's Maha Samadhi, Sathya Sai volunteers in Georgetown, Guyana, constructed and donated a new house for a needy family of seven on 23rd April 2013. The recipients appreciated the fact that they did not have to endure further hardships in their old, dilapidated quarters, since the rainy season was at hand.

Sathya Sai volunteers cooked and served dinner to 200 homeless people on Sunday, 21st April 2013.

On 17th July 2013, the SSIO of Guyana donated a number of wheelchairs to the Ministry of Health at Georgetown, Guyana. The minister of health, Dr. Bheri Ramsaran, thanked the SSIO and expressed hope that the relationship between the government and the Sathya Sai Organisation would grow in the future. This service project was reported in a local newspaper, the Guyana Chronicle.

ISRAEL

A hallmark of Sathya Sai education is the unity of all faiths and the practice of human values. The SSIO of Israel is taking sincere steps in that direction by spreading Bhagawan's teachings about the basic human values that transcend all religions and nationalities (truth, right conduct, love, peace, and nonviolence). Sathya Sai educators in Israel have presented workshops on EHV to Arabs and Jews, while working together in harmony. The Druze are a distinct and separate religious community living in the Middle East. As a result of this work, teachers from the Islamic, Jewish, and Druze faiths are working together, in classrooms and other venues, organising plays and other activities.

JAMAICA

On 20th October 2013, as part of the Sathya Sai Organisation's global "Serve the Planet" initiative, Sathya Sai volunteers of Jamaica served breakfast to more than 80 homeless individuals at the Marie Atkins Shelter Home in Kingston. In addition, 120 people at an infirmary and 50 homeless individuals in Ocho Rios were offered food.

ST. LUCIA

During October 2013, Sathya Sai volunteers of St. Lucia offered food to 30 homeless persons as part of the Sathya Sai Organisation's global "Serve the Planet" initiative. This loving service brought joy to recipients and volunteers alike.

SURINAME

In June 2013, the SSIO of Suriname conducted a medical camp. The Sai health care team included young adults, doctors, and medical students. Residents from a remote village were transported to the camp by bus. Screening was done for a variety of medical conditions, including high blood pressure and diabetes. Some minor illnesses were treated. Doctors and medical students gave talks on a healthy lifestyle. Each participant in the medical camp received a food package containing water, fruit, and health-food snacks. At the conclusion of the camp the participants were transported back to their village by bus.

MEDICAL SERVICES

During May 6th–11th and June 3rd–8th 2013, the SSIO of Trinidad and Tobago performed a total of 68 angioplasties at the Mt. Hope Medical Complex in Trinidad. Previously, in 2012, a donation by the SSIO of 250 arterial stents had been accepted by the minister of health, Dr. Fuad Khan, who subsequently authorised the use of the Eric Williams Medical Sciences Complex facilities for this project.

COMMUNITY SERVICES

On 4th August 2013, about 200 volunteers led by the Pasea Sai Centre of Trinidad conducted a service project in Sea Lots, Port of Spain, Trinidad and Tobago, in which 2,000 meals were prepared and packed into 500 parcels for distribution. The aim was to transform a crime-ridden community through Bhagawan's love by distributing food and clothing.

Service to the visually impaired

For most of the inhabitants of Trinidad and Tobago, going to a popular beach called Mayaro is a way of life, but for some this activity is a mere wish. For the past 20 years the SSIO of Trinidad and Tobago has conducted a service project that brings visually-impaired persons (VIPs) to the beach. For the past five years, Sai Young Adults have taken the lead in this project. On an auspicious day in the month of October 2013, the VIPs were transported to the beach to enjoy a day of sun, sea, sand, and Sai. The programme began with a devotional offering of multifaith songs and prayers, followed by lunch and a dip in the water. During this year's event, the VIPs themselves put together a programme on how to interact with the blind, providing a list of do's and don'ts to the volunteers. A fun-filled programme followed their presentation.

A team of 50 volunteers from Trinidad and Tobago built 30 prefabricated houses for needy families. Each house was completed in about three hours, with concrete foundations poured a few days prior to construction. The houses are hurricane- and termite-resistant. They have French windows, a steel roof, two bedrooms, and a larger room utilised as a kitchen, living room, and dining room. The houses were presented fully furnished with wardrobes, living room furniture, toilet fittings, electrical fixtures, a table and four chairs, and a kitchen sink. Recipients were also given a food hamper, basic toiletries, curtains, and bed sheets.

Young Adults of the SSIO of Trinidad and Tobago, working with the Just Because Foundation—which assists children with cancer and their families—surprised children on their birthdays with birthday cake, ice cream, a present, and a happy-birthday helium balloon. This service is conducted throughout the year.

DISASTER RELIEF

In 2011, after floods in North Trinidad destroyed the homes of many low-income families, young adult members of the SSIO spent significant time with the displaced children at a shelter. The families have since been relocated. On 13th July 2013, the young adults revisited these children, hosting nine of them, ages 1 to 10, at a “Fun Day” event. The project began with the young adults contacting the families, who had been relocated to apartments. The Fun Day programme was designed to encourage the children’s self-confidence through the development of an awareness of their innate talents and gifts. Each child received school supplies and other gifts, including a set of Bible stories and activity books. Each family received a hamper stocked with essential foods.

EASWARAMMA DAY OBSERVANCE

The SSIO of Trinidad and Tobago hosts an annual “National Easwaramma Sports and Family Day” in May, which brings the entire Organisation together as one. This event is planned jointly by the Young Adult and Education Wings of the SSIO. The young adults attended to every detail and planned the games and prizes for children attending the SSEHV programme. The theme for 2013 was “Ready, Set Go! Let Sai’s Love Flow.”

BHAGAWAN’S MAHA SAMADHI OBSERVANCE

In observance of Bhagawan Sri Sathya Sai Baba’s Maha Samadhi, Sathya Sai volunteers of Trinidad and Tobago gathered on 21st April 2013 at the Sai Nilayam, the headquarters of the SSIO of Trinidad and Tobago, to serve needy families from the central region of Trinidad and Tobago. Three wings of the Organisation—Service, Devotion, and Education—collaborated for a fun-filled day, with activities such as musical chairs, face painting, balloon and toy distribution, and an air-filled bouncy castle. Clothing, back-to-school items, and books were distributed. Children and parents participated in an EHV session focussed on the topic, “The Power of Prayer.” At the conclusion of the event, Sathya Sai volunteers journeyed to the families’ homes and delivered essential household items including food bags, bed frames, mattresses and bed sheets, study tables, paints, kitchen utensils, and a wheelchair.

MEDICAL AND COMMUNITY SERVICES

On Saturday, 23rd June 2013, the SSIO of Southern California, in coordination with the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, organised a first annual “Bonita–National City Community Free Health Screening Day” in Bonita, California. About 300 Sathya Sai volunteers, 30 medical professionals covering nine specialties, “Friends in Sight” volunteers from the Lions Club, and dental students and dental assistants from local schools, provided loving services. A total of 210 needy patients received medical care, including 118 in primary care, 116 in dental care, and 160 in vision care. Laboratory services provided at the camp included 57 blood tests and five peak pulmonary flow tests. A total of 129 patients with abnormal results were referred to clinics for follow-up medical work, and 102 women received gynaecological exams, bone density tests, mammograms, and Pap smears. Vision services included complete eye examinations and the giving away of 144 pairs of free prescription eyeglasses. In addition to health screening services, the camp provided families and individuals with hygiene kits and bags of food containing jars of peanut butter and jelly, rice, beans, and other nonperishable items. The low-income, multilingual community was very appreciative of the services.

On 7th October 2013, Region 8 of the SSIO of USA held its 8th annual Oxnard Medical Camp, near Los Angeles, California. The camp included 350 nonmedical volunteers and a medical staff of 33 doctors, 15 nurses, 3 phlebotomists, and 31 medical assistants, serving a total of 628 needy patients.

On 12th October 2013, Region 4 of the SSIO of USA held the 10th annual medical camp in St. Louis, Missouri. The chief executive of St. Louis County issued a proclamation declaring October 12, 2013, as Sathya Sai Free Medical Camp Day, to commemorate the 10th anniversary of this medical camp. Loving services were rendered by 13 doctors, 4 nurses, 15 paramedics, 55 Spanish interpreters, and 38 nonmedical volunteers. More than 190 patients received a variety of health services, including Dental and mental health care screenings were also provided. Bicycle helmets were given to children, along with instructions for proper fitting, and parents of young children were given child seats and help with installing them in their vehicles.

On the night of 21st December 2013, about 20 Sathya Sai volunteers from the Arcadia, Glendale, and Hollywood Centres of Southern California distributed 300 blankets and packets containing food and water to homeless individuals sleeping on the streets of downtown Los Angeles.

DISASTER RELIEF

On 20th May 2013, a particularly devastating tornado hit the town of Moore, Oklahoma, causing loss of life, destroying almost 13,000 homes, and significantly affecting more than 33,000 people. Shortly thereafter, on Friday, 31st May, several other deadly tornados hit Oklahoma City, injuring hundreds more and creating additional damage and significant flooding in the area. While more than 1,200 tornados occur in the USA each year, only 60 such class EF-5 tornados have been recorded in the country since 1950. The storm also produced heavy rain and hail, with floodwaters topping four feet in Oklahoma City.

Tornado devastation

Cleaning up after tornado

All Sathya Sai Centres in the South-Central Region of the USA sprang immediately into action by providing food and basic supplies to the needy and by rendering help and solace to tornado victims. Dozens of Sathya Sai volunteers participated in the relief work in Oklahoma City by helping to receive, organise, and distribute relief supplies and to aid in the clean-up efforts. The SSIO also worked with a needy community of about 80 homes and 320 people to reconstruct houses, design a water-purification system, and provide electric supply.

BHAGAWAN'S MAHA SAMADHI OBSERVANCE

Sathya Sai Centres throughout the USA observed Bhagawan's Maha Samadhi Day through organising a variety of community service and devotional programmes, highlighted below.

All 27 Sathya Sai Centres throughout the Pacific Southwest region arranged various service activities from 20th to 24th April 2013, including distribution of more than 10,000 pounds of food to 250 needy families in Oxnard, California, and an offering of home-cooked meals to more than 200 homeless people in downtown Los Angeles.

Between 24th and 27th April 2013, Sathya Sai volunteers from the Mid-Atlantic region, consisting of eight states along the East Coast of the U.S., served home-cooked food at shelters, provided canned food to food banks and soup kitchens,

Sai volunteers helping to pack 14,280 meals at North Texas Food Bank

About 200 bagged lunches were prepared and served to the hungry and homeless in downtown Orlando, Florida, on 20th April 2013. On 27th April, lunch was served to another 200 homeless people at the St. Francis House in Gainesville, Florida.

On the morning of 27th April 2013, Sathya Sai volunteers from Memphis, Tennessee, served a five-course, home-cooked meal to 220 women and children at a local women’s Rescue Mission and donated more than 50 large cans of mixed fruit to a community kitchen for the hungry.

The Sathya Sai Centre of Austin, Texas, observed Bhagawan’s Maha Samadhi Day with both devotional programmes and service activities. The Centre members also planted nearly 50 rose plants, adding to several hundred rose bushes already in place along the fence line at the Austin State Hospital, which hosts the Sathya Sai Centre.

Eighty-five members of the Sathya Sai Centre of Dallas, Texas, enthusiastically helped to pack 14,280 meals at the North Texas Food Bank. The food and supplies were bagged, boxed, and loaded onto 17 pallets. In addition, 536 pounds (243 kilogrammes) of food were donated.

South Houston Sathya Sai Centre of Texas organised two service activities during the week of 24th April. One team of volunteers prepared and served hot meals of pasta and salad to about 150 residents at two homeless shelters in the downtown Houston area on 27th April. Before dinner, SSIO young adult volunteers engaged about 35 residents in a “story time” activity, in which participants read an inspiring story, discussed the lessons learned, and shared their experiences. On 27th April, another volunteer team comprised of SSE children and volunteers from the Houston and Austin Sathya Sai Centres drove to a rural area in East Texas near Kirbyville and prepared large gift bags containing essential household items, packaged food, dental hygiene items, laundry and washing soaps, and toys for children. The volunteers then delivered the gift bags door-to-door to 82 needy families.

The Sathya Sai Centre of Charlotte, North Carolina, observed Bhagawan’s Maha Samadhi by joining in the waste recycling drive and collecting electronic waste for Earth Day on 22nd April 2013. On 24th April, a scholarship grant of 500 dollars was presented to the Bethlehem Centre of Charlotte for a deserving and needy child starting college. This award is part of the biannual awards that the Centre sponsors to honour both Bhagawan’s Maha Samadhi in April and His Birthday in November. An estimated 20 volunteers served lunch to about 100 guests at the Dilworth Soup Kitchen on 27th April.

AVATAR DECLARATION DAY

Across the USA, Sathya Sai Centres observed Avatar Declaration Day in October 2013 with service activities and devotional meetings. Sathya Sai volunteers prepared and served hot meals to the homeless, the elderly, and the poor, and distributed meal and snack packets. They served food at soup kitchens and stocked the shelves of food pantries. Sathya Sai volunteers also distributed coats, blankets, hygiene kits, and school supplies to the homeless, both in shelters and on the streets. In northern Colorado, volunteers distributed food packets to people who had been rendered homeless as a result of devastating floods that occurred in late summer 2013. In Texas, members from both the North Houston and the South Houston Centres distributed toiletry kits and food to needy families in three impoverished communities located more than 100 miles from their Centres.

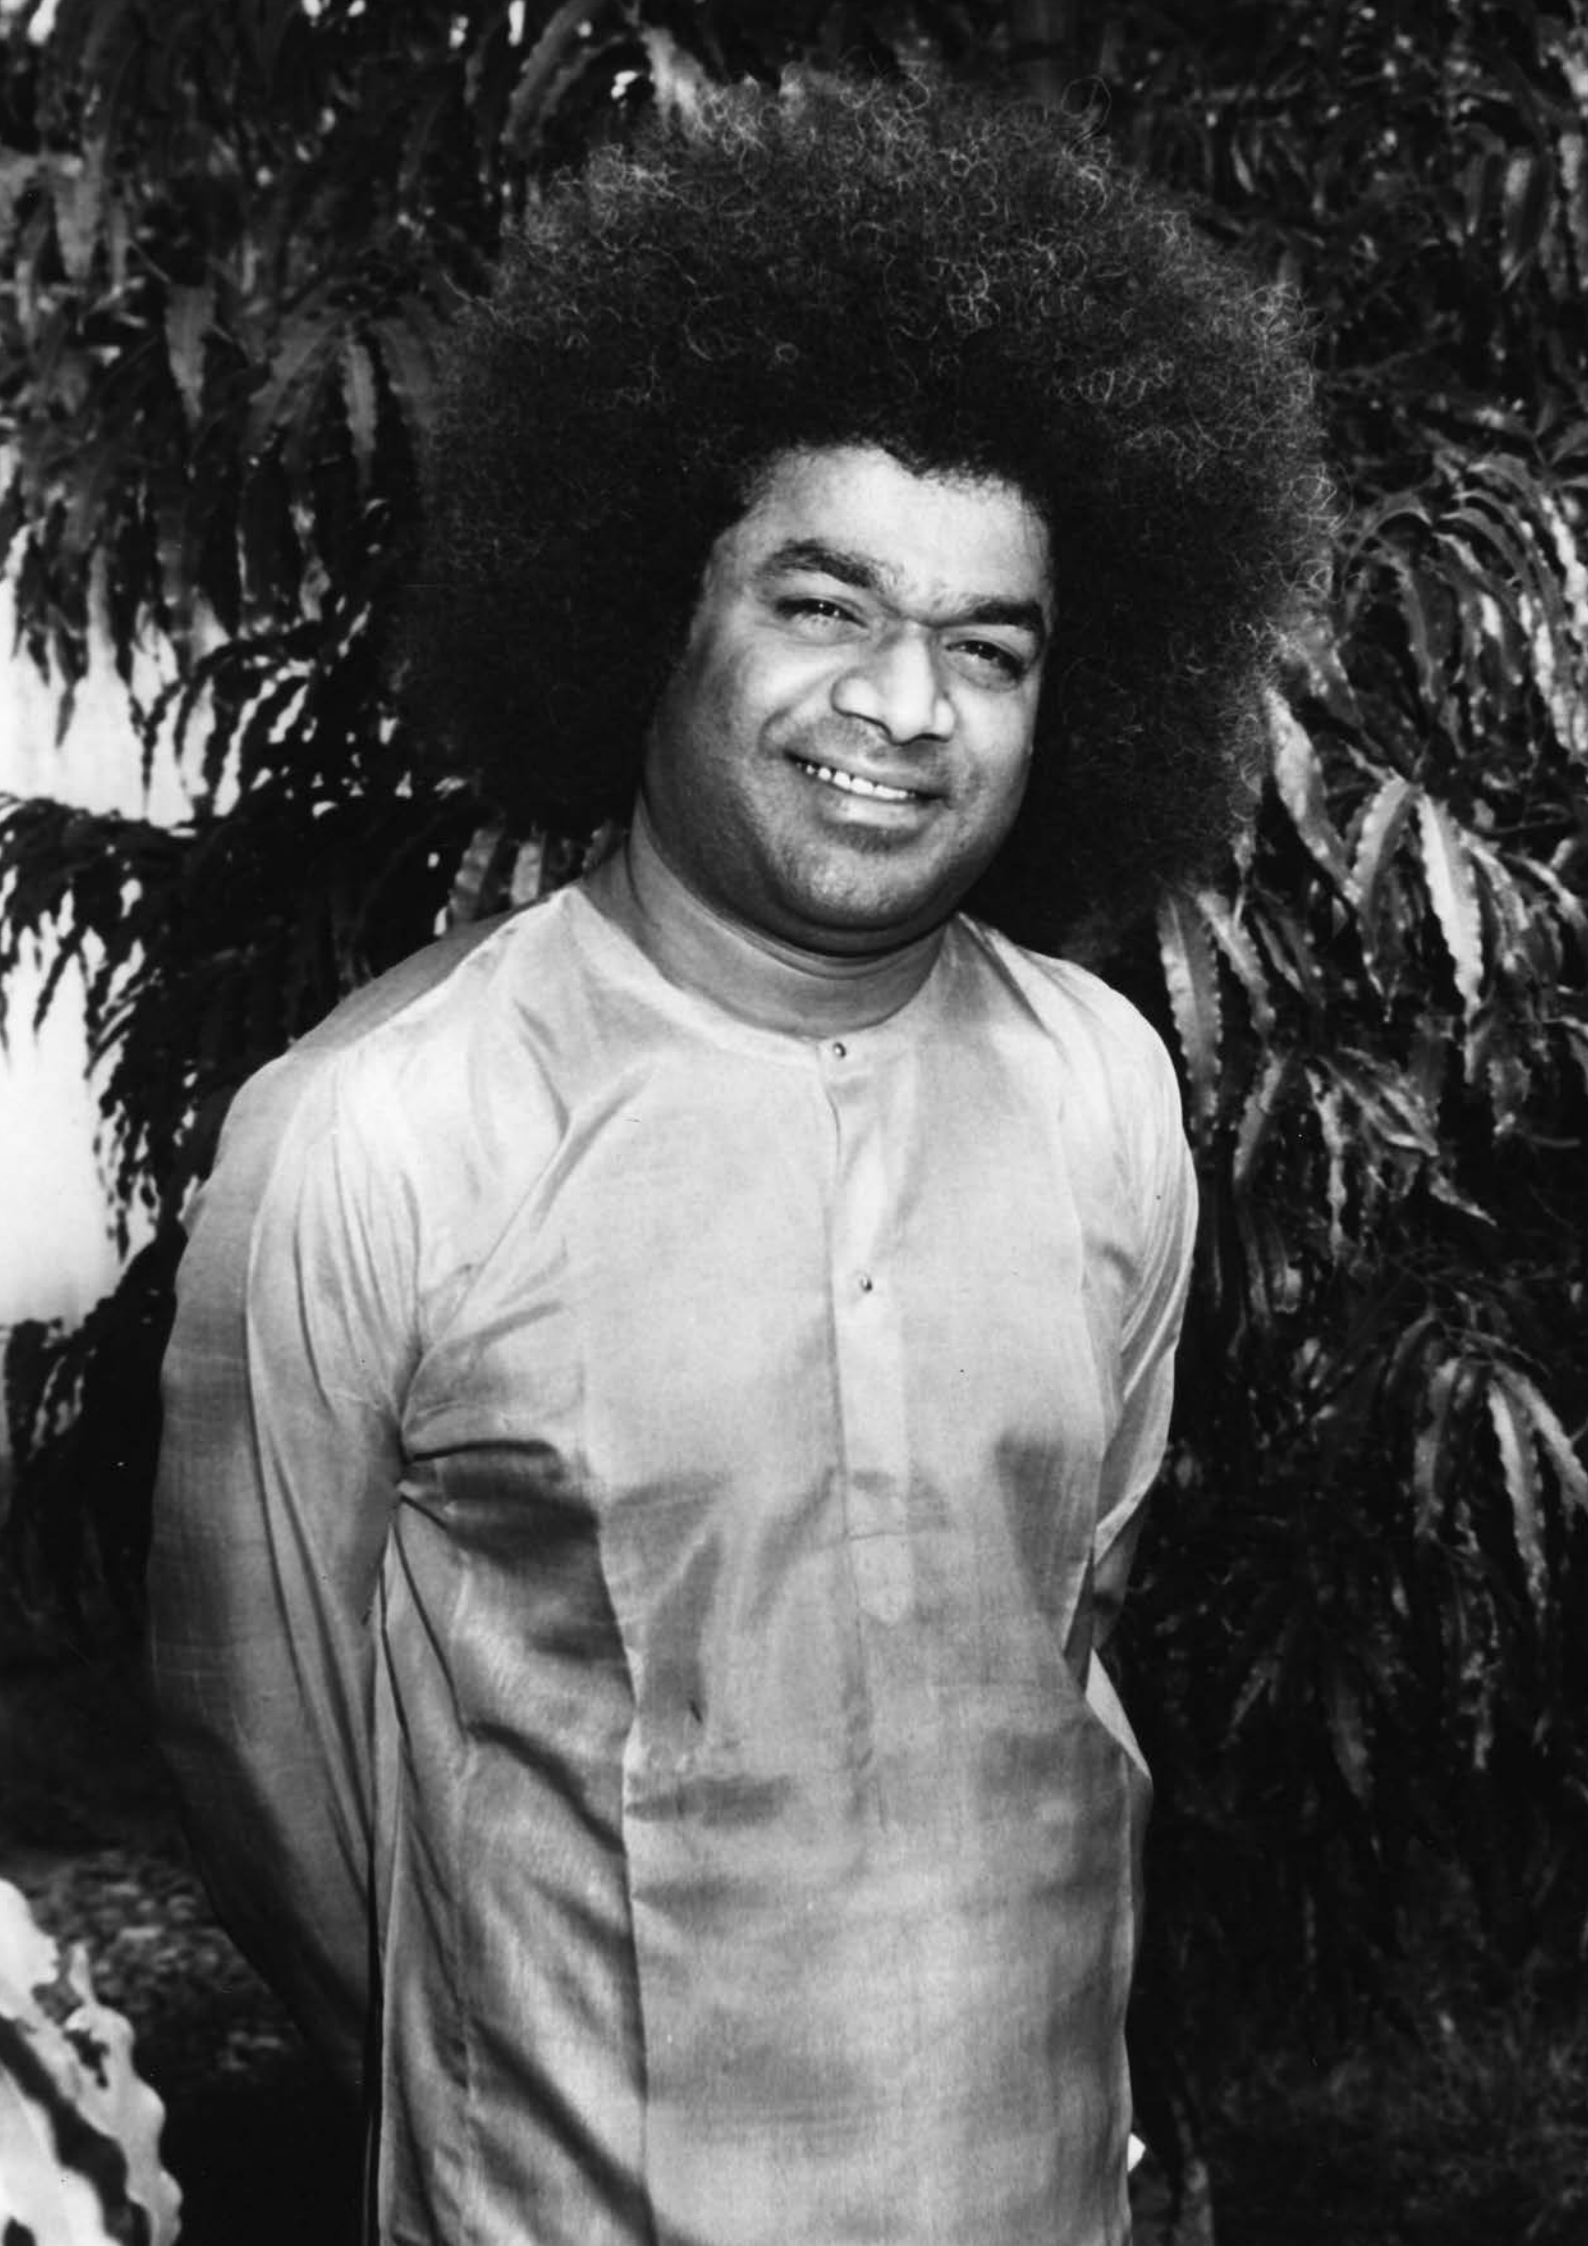

US VIRGIN ISLANDS

On a weekend in St. Thomas, US Virgin Islands, in honour of Bhagawan's Maha Samadhi, Sathya Sai volunteers offered homemade meals at the Elder Shelter Home, the Yellow Cedar Home to the Physically Challenged, the Bethlehem Home for the Homeless, and the Nana Baby Home for Orphans. Individual white towels and hand towels were also distributed, signifying Bhagawan's pure love for all.

A devotional programme was held in honour of Bhagawan's Maha Samadhi in St. Thomas on 24th April 2013 by members of the Sathya Sai Organisation, members of the Living Hope Cathedral, and members of the India Association of the Virgin Islands. The hall was decorated beautifully by Sathya Sai volunteers with the pink and blue colours of Prasanthi Nilayam. "Live in Love" was the central theme. A heart-warming children's play titled "Love Is Life and Life Is Love" was staged, and two guests addressed the group. One spoke about Sikhism and the teachings of the Guru Granth Sahib. The second speaker, a member of the Christian clergy, shared the message, "God is One, and His love Is Infinite."

A Sathya Sai volunteer, who is an agronomist, assisted by his three sons, planted an organic garden in San Jose, Costa Rica for orphan children in June 2012. The orphans learnt to tend a garden and grow their own food, and learnt the principles of sustainability. They planted several kinds of vegetables such as spinach, radish, beans, corn, and carrots and herbs such as oregano, rosemary, and thyme. The children learnt to eat healthy food and were proud and happy to eat from their own garden, planted by themselves. The project inspired self-confidence, satisfaction, and enthusiasm among the 14 orphans who participated.

Sixteen devotees participated in a beautiful programme at the Sathya Sai Centre of San Jose, Costa Rica, on 24th April 2013. After opening prayers and bhajans, three speakers delivered inspiring talks. During the following week, Sathya Sai volunteers served breakfast to a group of individuals with HIV.

CUBA

More than 70 Sathya Sai devotees attended Maha Shivaratri celebrations in Cuba. The event, commencing on the evening of 28th February 2014 and lasting through the night, included devotional singing, meditation, and films about Bhagawan Sri Sathya Sai Baba. The Indian Ambassador to Cuba, accompanied by his family, attended the event. In an extraordinary development, the Cuban authorities have authorised the SSIO of Cuba to meet on Saturdays at the Masonic Lodge in the capital city of La Habana, for the purpose of teaching classes on the Light Meditation.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

The president and five members of the ISSE conducted a workshop on human values on 15th and 16th March 2014 at a town hall in Santiago, Dominican Republic. More than 100 participants, including the mayor, community leaders, and the local police, were informed about human values as taught by Bhagawan, and how to apply them at work and in their personal lives. The mayor of Santiago had requested this workshop for the benefit of public officials as well as the community. The workshop was well received and solidified the link between the community and the ISSE for future work.

EL SALVADOR

MEDICAL SERVICES

In San Salvador, the capital city of El Salvador, a Sai Care Clinic in the neuroscience building of the Hospital de Diagnóstico has been providing health care for those in need continuously since 1st April 2006, when it opened with Bhagawan Sri Sathya Sai Baba's blessings. On Saturdays from noon to 5:00 PM, Sai volunteer doctors offer medical services in neurology, psychiatry, gynaecology, and general medicine. Prescription medicines are also dispensed free of charge at a pharmacy operated by Sathya Sai volunteers. More than 100 patients are provided loving and free health care monthly. The clinic's services benefit needy and destitute people, including seniors who do not qualify for social security or other health services. Many of the patients are homeless and sleep on the streets or in public dormitories; they receive breakfast twice a week from Sathya Sai volunteers. Flyers detailing the location and hours of the medical clinic are given out during the breakfast service.

EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITIES

Sai Young Adults from the Gerardo Barrios Sathya Sai Centre in San Salvador have recently redecorated the Centre's main hall and SSE classroom. The Centre shares a building, constructed by the Sathya Sai Foundation, with wheelchair residents who live on the first two floors, and the third floor is designated for the use of the Sai Centre. The redecorating generated enthusiasm for attendance in educational classes, and now up to 11 SSE children and 8 adolescent youth are participating in the classes. A manual for the adolescents was prepared by the Young Adult Wing.

GUATEMALA

An unusual transformational service activity was initiated in July 2013 by a former Sai Young Adult coordinator. Accompanied by his brother-in-law, he used to visit inmates at a prison in Guatemala City. The prison had a workshop with sewing machines, which were used only to repair clothing for the inmates and their families. Since the former Sai Young Adult coordinator was employed in a clothing-assembly plant, he thought about giving some of that work to the inmates. Arrangements were then made for the inmates to produce sample clothing, such as shirts, pants, and underwear. Thereafter, orders started pouring in, for 500–1,000 pieces, including from other countries such as Costa Rica, Mexico, and the USA. The inmates were paid minimum wage but were happy to be employed. The prison officials were happy, too, because violence in the prison diminished significantly, since everyone was working productively. When larger orders for 10,000 pieces and more started to arrive, the Sathya Sai volunteer found it necessary to work inside the prison all day—and then could not leave for security reasons. He also obtained permission for women with relevant experience to come in to work at night, to help fill the orders on time. In the future, the Sai volunteer intends to set up a factory outside the prison to employ former inmates upon their release.

HAITI

Sathya Sai volunteers serve food daily to children living in camps. In honour of Bhagawan Sri Sathya Sai Baba's Birthday on 23rd November 2013, the coordinating volunteer, Shanti, who oversees the feeding of hundreds of children in Haiti, planned to invite 88 children to come to the Sai Operations Centre for bhajans and a supper. Food was accordingly prepared for 88 children. To their surprise, more than 500 parents, children, and other camp residents showed up for the bhajans, including the entire congregation of a nearby church. Since there was little room in the Sai Operations Centre, the crowd overflowed into the street, and everyone sang devotional songs till past the midnight hours. They did not come to eat, but the Sathya Sai volunteers, out of compassion, cooked well into the early hours of the next day in order to serve food to the large assembly. Finally, all the participants enjoyed a sumptuous dinner. Upon waking the next morning, Shanti found the photograph of Swami in the altar covered with vibhuti, which was taken as a sign that Bhagawan was happy with the selfless service offered by His devotees.

EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITIES

In Mexico, teachers have formed the Academy of Sathya Sai Human Values under the leadership of the ISSE. The Academy holds monthly or bimonthly meetings, during which teachers exchange experiences and plan training sessions for new teachers.

On 13th April 2013, 25 teachers attended the third meeting of the Academy, in Monterrey. The ISSE hosts a weekly radio programme on human values, during which many listeners call in for more information. One teacher described this radio programme during which she relates human values stories from the Sathya Sai Manuals. Two other teachers shared their experiences of the EHV classes they teach to children every Saturday afternoon in a public library. In addition, the ISSE conducts classes in human values for youth, ages 11–17, in a detention centre. The conduct of the boys and girls who take these classes has been shown to improve considerably, helping them to become better prepared to lead normal lives upon release.

A 5th annual Latin America EHV Internship Diploma Course, a residential training programme, took place 4th–31st January 2014, in Cuernavaca, state of Morelos, Mexico.

Twenty students from Mexico, Venezuela, Colombia, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, and Argentina attended the course taught by 17 facilitators from five countries. On 19th January, the group visited the pyramids of Teotihuacan, and the city of Taxco, where a discussion was held on the spiritual traditions of pre-Spanish and current Mexican cultures. Week-long classes were held at the Sathya Sai School of Cuernavaca, with apprentice teachers and students attending classes daily. In a closing ceremony, children from the Sathya Sai School presented spiritual songs and hymns about light. The graduates of the diploma course constitute teachers in the Sathya Sai Schools, members of the ISSE, and other educators who wish to incorporate the knowledge and experience gained from such a training programme into their own educational system.

DEVOTIONAL ACTIVITIES

During the period 7th–9th February 2014, a Latin American Congress was held in San Luis Potosí, México to commemorate the 40th anniversary of the SSIO of Latin America. The purpose of the Congress was to analyse the strengths and challenges of the SSIO of Latin America, and to make plans for spreading the message of Bhagawan Sri Sathya Sai Baba in the coming years. About 125 Sathya Sai volunteers, from 23 countries of Latin America, USA, Spain, and India, alongside 120 SSIO members from Mexico, attended the event. Each of the countries in Latin America had responded to an extensive questionnaire during retreats held in prior months, which allowed the SSIO officers to prepare a comprehensive programme, prior to the Congress. The event was inaugurated by Dr. Narendranath Reddy, Chairman, Prasanthi Council, and Mr. Gary Belz, Chairman, Sri Sathya Sai World Foundation, with the symbolic lighting of a lamp. Nine workshops on “Sai Leadership” and photography exhibitions on SSIO activities in Latin America were held the following day. The event concluded with devotional songs from different countries of Latin America. A web book was published afterward, capturing the complete proceedings of the Congress for those who could not attend.

Medical Camp in Panama

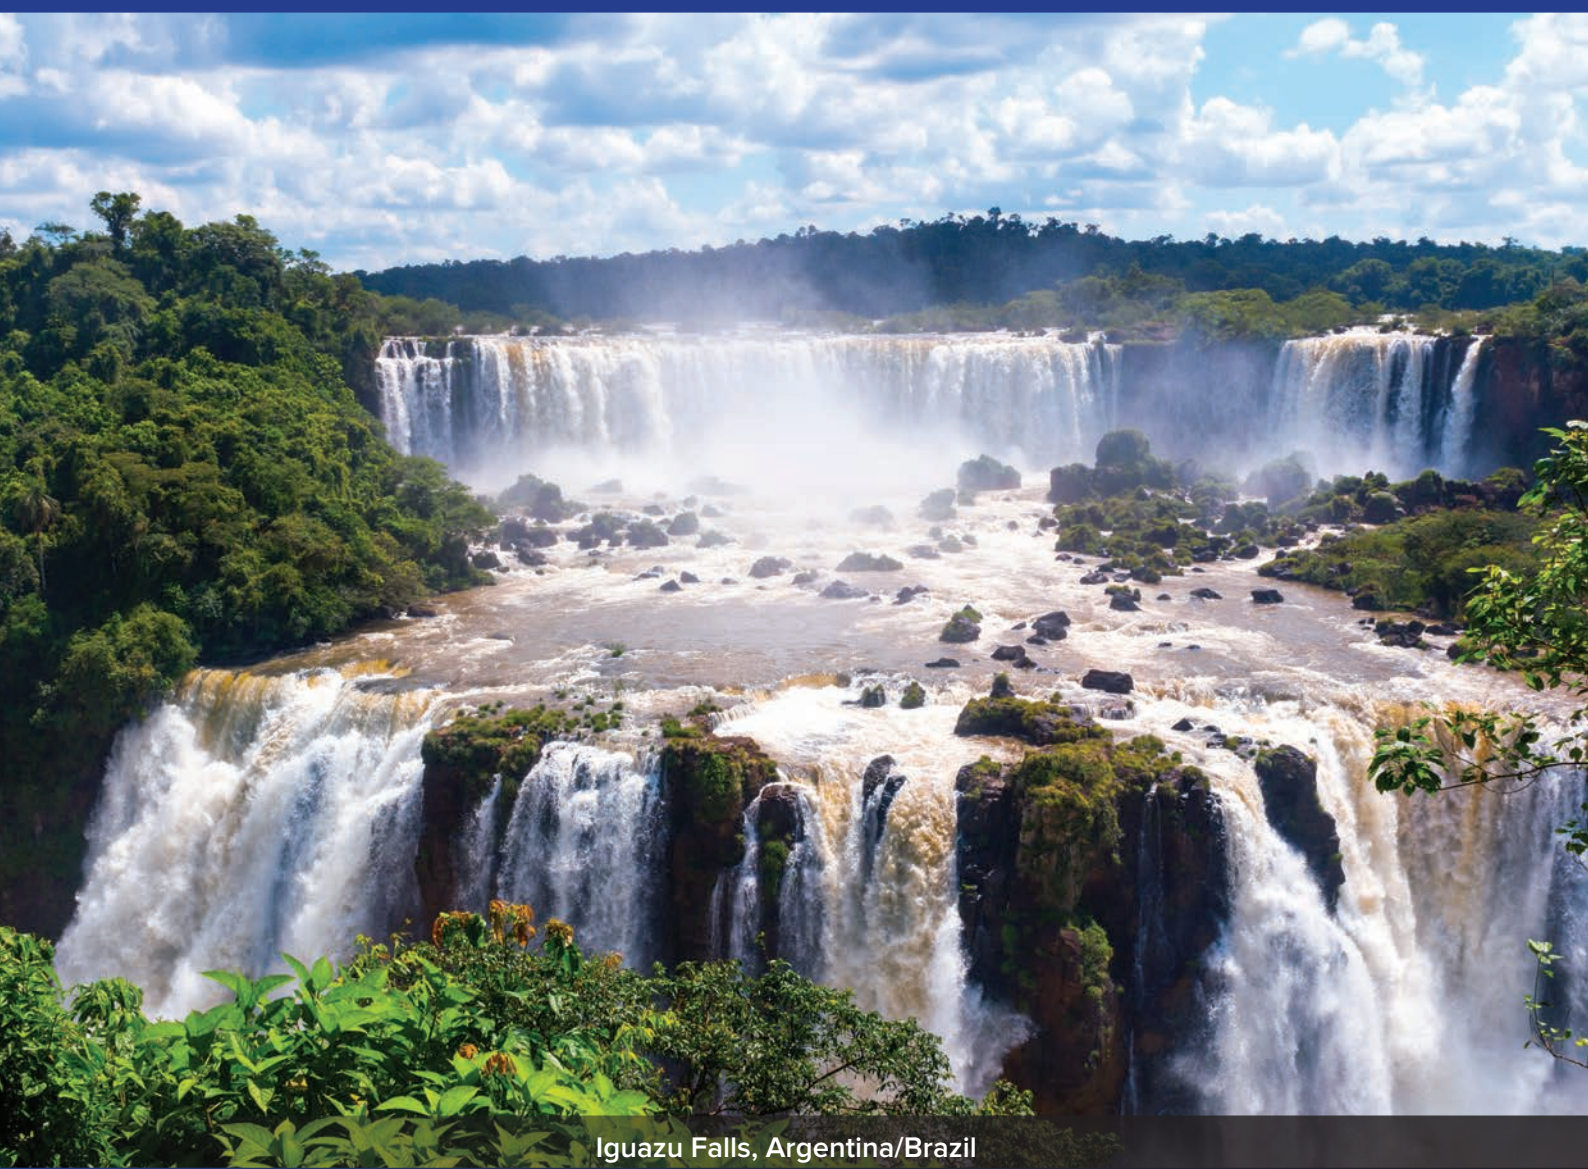

PANAMA

In observance of Avatar Declaration Day, the SSIO of Panama held a medical camp in Lomas de Campana, Capira, Panamá, on 16th November 2013. More than 30 Sathya Sai volunteers, 9 doctors, a surgeon, 14 nurses, and 6 dentists provided medical services to 273 needy patients suffering from cold, myalgia, skin infection, hypertension, intestinal parasite, and other common ailments. Mammograms and gynaecological services were offered to 57 women. Eye glasses were dispensed to 114 people, and 153 people received dental care, including prophylaxis, amalgam fillings, and fluoride applications. Sathya Sai volunteers also distributed medicines, clothing, shoes, and food. The shoes distributed at this and other medical camps are used shoes that have been reconditioned by a retired shoemaker who is a member of the SSIO of Panama.

MEDICAL SERVICES

During this reporting period, six medical camps were held in Buenos Aires, one in Rio Negro, and one in Santa Fe, for the benefit of 1,121 persons. A vision camp also was held in Santa Fe, during which 71 people were examined and 58 eyeglasses distributed. Workshops were held on the topics of disease prevention and human values. At a medical camp in Gonzalez Catan, Buenos Aires, 92 patients received medical services in the specialities of paediatrics, internal medicine, general medicine, dentistry, otolaryngology, gynaecology, dermatology, cardiology, neurology, and ophthalmology. In addition, Pap smears, ultrasound, ECG, and blood pressure measurements were performed, and pets and other animals received veterinary care. Sathya Sai volunteers conducted workshops on health care and human values at the medical camp.

Sathya Sai volunteers in Salta, Argentina, serve lunch to needy people every Saturday. Once a month, they arrange for a paediatrician to examine the children. On 5th October 2013, the Sathya Sai Centre of Salta organised a children's vision camp at a campsite located 20 kilometres from Salta City. An ophthalmologist and three medical assistants from the Saravia Olmos Foundation conducted 70 eye examinations for children, as well as for a few parents. In addition, 33 eyeglasses were distributed by Sai Medicare.

COMMUNITY SERVICES AND EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITIES

In many cases, children are involved in EHV activities after school hours, where they learn about love, gratitude, right conduct, self-respect, inner peace, and nonviolence in a playful and motivational manner, sometimes through or accompanied by games or plays. Evidence shows that these values are easily absorbed and contribute positively to the character of the children as they grow up.

Since 2005, SSIO volunteers have lovingly served the residents of Florencio Varela, an extremely poor neighbourhood in Buenos Aires. With the help of 10 volunteers, they provide food to 50 children, thrice weekly, along with free health care. A general physician, a paediatrician, a dermatologist, an otolaryngologist, a dentist, and a psychologist render medical services to about 100 needy people every month. The children also receive human values education and participate in school-support activities, crafts, games, and music. Christmas Day and the birthday of every child are celebrated. On Sundays, a special breakfast is served, with freshly baked bread, milk, and tea; other meals include cakes, cookies, pizza, and vegetables. In the beginning people used to come only for the food; now they come in search of peace and love.

The Noccan Kani House, which belongs to the SSIO of Argentina, is located in a poverty-stricken area approximately 20 kilometres from the city of Santa Fe, near a settlement of about 2,000 aboriginal people. Sathya Sai volunteers have rendered loving services at the Noccan Kani House, a two-story building with adjoining structures for medical and dental services, for the last 22 years. Medical care is provided bimonthly to the low-income community by eight medical and general volunteers. Mothers from the local community receive instruction in dressmaking and in human values. Sathya Sai medical, vision, and veterinary camps are also organised here periodically by the SSIO of Argentina.

BOLIVIA

Sathya Sai members in Santa Cruz and La Paz regularly visit elderly residents in asylums, orphanages, and hospitals. Sathya Sai volunteers also distribute food to the needy and the homeless in metropolitan cities and in small villages where neglected and indigenous people live in abject poverty. Providing food to the homeless is an on-going activity of SSIO members in La Paz and Cochabamba.

Since 2013, ISSE of Bolivia has been training teachers in human values in the cities of Sucre, Santa Cruz, La Paz, and Cochabamba.

The SSIO of Brazil operates five Sathya Sai schools in different parts of the country, and supports an active ISSE that has trained thousands of professional teachers in human values education as taught by Bhagawan Sri Sathya Sai Baba.

Nearly 300 people from all nine regions of the country attended a national meeting of the SSIO of Brazil on 21st and 22nd September 2013. The programme included devotional activities, lectures, theatrical performances, and devotional singing, as well as study circles in preparation for the Latin American Congress held in early 2014.

About 30 Sai Young Adults of the Southeast Region II of Brazil held a meeting on 6th and 7th August 2013, with the theme “The Role of Youth in Society.” The meeting focussed on loving behaviour in a competitive world, with consideration for the happiness of others. The meeting highlights included dynamic outdoor presentations, lectures, music, and films. All speakers and meeting facilitators were young adults.

In observance of Bhagawan Sri Sathya Sai Baba’s Maha Samadhi, about 100 SSIO members in Rio de Janeiro sang devotional songs at the Sathya Sai Centre of Vila Isabel for a 24-hour period starting on 23rd April 2013.

Sai Young Adults in Brazil celebrated Avatar Declaration Day 2013 on 20th October by distributing food to 375 needy people in the south, southeast, and northeast regions of the country.

CHILE

The SSIO of Chile is one of the oldest in South America. Sathya Sai volunteers serve food each week to the needy and the homeless in Santiago. Sathya Sai volunteers have also worked successfully with other faith-based groups to serve the needy in Iquique, in the northern part of Chile. The young adults not only take part in serving food to homeless people, but during the winter they also distribute blankets, shoes, sneakers, bedding, clothing, and nylon plastic sheets for rain covers with those who cannot afford such basic necessities.

Walk for Values, Ecuador

COLOMBIA

Many educational activities take place in Colombia. The Young Adult Wing of the SSIO of Colombia conducts human values-based children's activities in a school in Bucaramanga, in eastern Colombia. Regular medical camps have been held for many years, bringing hope and relief to hundreds of people. Sathya Sai volunteers have also provided a house as a temporary shelter for needy families arriving from the countryside with children in need of medical treatment in Bogotá. The families receive food, computer classes, EHV classes, and tutoring for the children. In addition, craft workshops, sewing, and cooking classes are offered to the adults, as well as people living in nearby areas.

ECUADOR

The small country of Ecuador is blessed with two beautiful and inspiring Sathya Sai schools. They maintain high spiritual and academic standards, even though they are situated in areas of extreme poverty. The national educational authorities have been favourably impressed with their visits to the Sathya Sai schools; as a result, EHV has started to transform the educational system.

Ecuador held its first Walk for Values on 16th November 2013, inspired by similar programmes in Canada and Australia. The first event was organised with the approval and sponsorship of the municipality of Guayaquil, Lima, Peru. Prior to the event, each student's family reflected upon one value they would like to embrace at home. The families then pledged to uphold their selected value throughout the year, made a banner, and carried it during the walk. About 200 people participated joyfully in this walk, singing human values songs. At the completion of the walk, the children recited poems and presented a talk on Bhagawan Sri Sathya Sai Baba. The community further resolved to organise the human values walk every year.

PARAGUAY

Bhagawan Sri Sathya Sai Baba's 88th Birthday was celebrated at the Sathya Sai Kindergarten, Light Droplets, in Asunción, Paraguay, where hundreds of people, including Sathya Sai members, attended a cultural programme and enjoyed dinner. On 23rd November 2013, the children of the Sathya Sai School performed group activities and presented songs based on human values. Every week, Sathya Sai volunteers visit patients in a neuropsychiatric hospital, which is a source of comfort and relief to patients who crave love and attention.

PERU

MEDICAL SERVICES

Two medical camps were organised on the outskirts of Lima in October and December 2013. During the October camp, 105 needy individuals received care in general medicine, dentistry, obstetrics, and psychology. They also received prescribed medicines. In the December camp, 63 patients were examined in the same medical speciality areas and given prescribed medicines. Six to ten medical professionals participated in each camp, along with about six volunteers. Sathya Sai volunteers in Peru continued to deliver prescription drugs every month to the Trujillo Teaching Hospital. During Christmas 2013, medicines were donated to medical centres in the mountains of the Huacaybamba Province, at an elevation higher than 3,000 metres.

COMMUNITY SERVICES

All Sathya Sai Centres of Lima came together to render loving services to four low-income neighbourhoods located at Saint Francis Hill, in the southern outskirts of Lima, on 28th April, 25th August, 20th October, and 15th December 2013. During one event, a volunteer team prepared delicious vegetarian meals for 300 people, working alongside local residents in the kitchen, and more than 70 children, ages 6–12, enjoyed human values songs, games, and group activities.

Since 2011, the SSIO of Peru has served about 300 villagers who live in extreme poverty in Cullcuy, located 3,500 meters above sea level. In winter, many children die and adults suffer from the bitter cold at such a high elevation, so a nationwide campaign was organised for collecting clothes, food, medicines, and supplies.

In July 2013, after an 18-hour journey, nine Sathya Sai volunteers arrived at Cullcuy with more than 1,300 kilogrammes of food, clothing, medicines, and other necessities. On arrival, they saw children walking around without shoes in the extremely cold weather. This motivated them to return six months later, in January 2014, to repeat the loving service at Cullcuy by providing shoes, blankets, scarves, and hats for cold-weather protection.

Families planting apple tree, Uruguay

URUGUAY

Sathya Sai educators are actively spreading EHV in Uruguay. In October 2013, SSE teachers, students, and their families participated in an activity focussed on nature. Each family reflected on their relationships and wrote down their thoughts on heart-shaped papers. An apple tree was then planted jointly, and the participants placed the heart-shaped papers near the roots of the apple tree, in a symbolic gesture of love as nourishment.

During the past 25 years, 922 educators have been trained in EHV in Uruguay. As part of the 25th anniversary of this initiative, a television programme, Good Morning Uruguay, featured the EHV programme. This public exposure of the EHV programme had an amazing impact on the community.

VENEZUELA

Sathya Sai volunteers of Venezuela hold two cataract surgery camps every year. During the reporting period, camps took place on 31st May and 22nd November 2013, with the second camp being held in conjunction with Bhagawan Sri Sathya Sai Baba's Birthday. At the camps, 39 impoverished elders received free surgeries, and patients received transportation services, medicines, intraocular lenses, and valves. Services were rendered by nine eye surgeons, three anaesthesiologists, one plastic surgeon, nine instrument specialists, about 12 supporting staff, and approximately 15 volunteers.

In November 2013, a medical camp was carried out in Pocumare del Tuy. Doctors rendered loving services to about 350 patients in the specialities of general medicine, paediatrics, gynaecology, and dentistry. A pharmacist provided medications as needed. During the medical camp, recreational programmes were conducted for children, with stories, drama, and songs demonstrating human values. The children also received toys, school kits, oral hygiene kits, and bags filled with nutritious vegetarian food.

MEDICAL AND COMMUNITY SERVICES

A blood donation project, also known as Liquid Love, is coordinated by the Sai Young Adults in Australia, in collaboration with the Service Wing. It is organised annually between Guru Poornima and Bhagawan's Birthday. The support for this project has been overwhelming from all Sathya Sai Centres, with 168 people stepping forward to donate blood from October to November 2013.

When winter approaches in Australia, many people do not have warm clothes. Over the past year, Sathya Sai members in Queensland and the young adults reached out to the community with a project to donate blankets, warm hats, and gloves to help the needy members of the community. More than 200 blankets were collected and delivered to the needy.

In October, South Australian Sai Young Adults commenced working with the Australian Refugee Association, volunteering as part of their social support programme. This programme utilises a network of trained volunteers who support newly-arrived refugees. Volunteers visit families regularly to offer friendship, guidance, and practical assistance, such as practising conversational English.

EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITIES

An education retreat with the theme, "My Students Are My Wealth," was held at Bossley Park near Sydney on 10th and 11th August 2013. It was attended by more than 160 educators from various countries in Zone 3. A prominent aspect of the presentations and workshops was a focus on SSE Group 4 students and the youth programme for young adults. A number of dynamic and innovative approaches have been developed by the SSE teachers in various countries, resulting in enhanced retention of Group 3 and older youth.

DEVOTIONAL ACTIVITIES

During 25th–26th May 2013, a one-day youth leadership workshop was held in Sydney, and young adults from every state were invited to participate. The workshop was a success, with positive feedback from all participants.

Also in May 2013, an interfaith event called All Faith Music Festival was conducted. Using the common denominator of sacred song and music, this event brought together, in an atmosphere of harmony, more than 200 people of various faiths, including Islam, Buddhism, Sufism, Christianity, and Guru Poornima was celebrated by Sathya Sai devotees in the Victoria region under the theme “Walk His Path.” Arthur and Poppy Hillcoat, the guest speakers, focussed on women playing a major role in the development of spirituality in the family. At the end of the programme, the children presented a beautiful play, the highlight of the day, with the universal message of the unity of faiths.

In September 2013, 300 Sathya Sai members from all over Australia attended a retreat in the foothills of the Blue Mountains, organised by the New South Wales region. The retreat theme, “Divine Romance,” emphasised the trilogy of love—love for God; loving ourselves and realising our innate divinity; and loving others, with the understanding that all are divine. Uplifting and enjoyable talks were given by esteemed guest speakers Arthur and Poppy Hillcoat and Sumeet Tappoo.

AVATAR DECLARATION DAY

In observance of Avatar Declaration Day in 2013, Sathya Sai volunteers hosted a morning tea and musical performance for more than 70 seniors in Perth, Western Australia. In addition, two new projects for serving food to the needy were initiated.

In the New South Wales East Region, on 19th October 2013, Sathya Sai volunteers participated in a Bush Care project by planting 740 plants, in support of the local Strath-field Council. On the following day, more than 60 volunteers including Sathya Sai Young Adults assembled 1,000 birthing kits, which are used in developing countries during delivery of babies, to prevent infection.

FIJI

The Ministry for Education in Fiji has endorsed the EHV programme for schools and has asked the SSIO of Fiji to present workshops for leaders in education to raise awareness about the significance of the EHV programme. Accordingly, workshops were conducted in the districts of Nadi, Lautoka, Ba, Rakiraki, Tavua, Nausori, Suva, and Navua. About 45 educators attended each of the district workshops.

The Fiji Sathya Sai Disaster Relief Committee swung into action after flooding occurred in February 2014 at River Road in Narere. Sathya Sai volunteers distributed 35 packets of groceries to flood victims in March and an additional 75 packets at a later time.

MEDICAL SERVICES

Twenty-five Sathya Sai volunteers organised a Sai Medicare camp on 27th April 2013, at the Nakaikogo Dharma School, Koronivia, Nausori, Fiji. One dermatologist, two dentists, three ophthalmologists, two gynaecologists, and five general physicians, assisted by eight paramedical staff and two nurses, provided medical care to 300 patients. Sixty pairs of prescription eyeglasses were distributed to the needy. Six pharmacists filled 285 prescriptions at this camp. In addition, 17 people participated in a three-hour-long EHV workshop, held concurrently on the premises. Lunch was served to the participants and the community, and 500 informational flyers were distributed, along with certificates of appreciation for all volunteers.

During 5th–10th May 2013, the eighth annual medical camp was organised in Viti Levu, Fiji, by 60 Sathya Sai volunteers from New Zealand and Australia, including 20 doctors specialising in general practice, general surgery, oncology, paediatrics, obstetrics, gynaecology, ophthalmology, optometry, dentistry, internal medicine, and gastroenterology. The SSIO of Fiji assisted with all arrangements, and local volunteers included doctors, dentists, and other healthcare professionals. Medical services were rendered to more than 3,000 needy patients at A. D. Patel School, Malolo Nadi; Ra High School, Raki; Nadarivatu High School; Keyasi High School, Nadroga; Tagi High School, Tavua; and Viseisei District School and Viseisei Health Centre, Lautoka. The Nadarivatu and Keyasi sites were particularly difficult to access, due to their remote location and proximity to Mount Victoria, the highest mountain in Fiji.

The seventh annual Fiji-Australia medical camp was held during 18th–23rd August 2013 in Fiji. The camp leaders, Dr. Gunu Naker, Dr. K. Nadanachandran, and Dr. Saras Nandan, were assisted by 42 volunteers from Australia, one volunteer from New Zealand, and eight volunteers from Fiji. The first day was dedicated to continuing medical education at the University of Fiji, focussing on women's health. Several lectures were given, and medical papers were presented by a distinguished faculty.

Then, over the next five days, the team of visiting and local medical volunteers, assisted by 40 medical students, drove to remote village schools and set up medical camps. A total of 2,480 patients were registered, and 3,337 medical consultations were provided in the fields of general medicine, ophthalmology, general dental, dental prosthetic, paediatric and women's health, nursing, neurosurgery, medical education, and pharmacy. In addition, at least 750 pairs of prescription eyeglasses were distributed. Local Sathya Sai volunteers helped with the camp operations, and attending medical students received practical clinical training.

NEW ZEALAND

COMMUNITY SERVICES

On 18th October 2013, Sathya Sai volunteers from Hutt Valley, New Zealand, delivered delicious fresh fruit, buns, and bookmarks to about 600 students from three primary schools in the Hutt Valley. The bookmarks carried sayings such as, “Life is a game; play it”; “Concentrate. Do not have a monkey mind”; and “True friendship should be from heart to heart.”

For the past 15 years, the Sathya Sai Centre of Howick-Pakuranga has hosted a quarterly afternoon tea for seniors in the local community. On 8th December 2013, Sathya Sai volunteers visited the Papatoetoe Rugby Club to entertain more than 80 seniors from various ethnic backgrounds. The programme, coordinated by Sathya Sai Young Adults, included traditional songs, Christmas carols, and Maori songs beautifully rendered by a Maori choir. The seniors were then treated to a presentation on the life of Nelson Mandela, and Christmas gifts were distributed.

For the past 15 years Sathya Sai volunteers have provided daily breakfast, freshly-baked fruit buns, and stationery to support needy children at the Pomare School, in Lower Hutt in the central region of New Zealand. In 2011, the Hutt Valley Sathya Sai Centre began providing tutoring service at the school, being blessed with the opportunity to tutor Maori, Polynesian, and Caucasian children from low- and moderate-income families, who are challenged with slow learning aptitudes. The volunteers visit the school twice a week for an hour in the morning and offer mathematics tutoring to eight-to-ten-year-old students. The volunteers also teach the students simple breathing exercises to support their overall physical and mental health. The academic ratings of the children have increased significantly after only six months of tutoring.

EDUCATIONAL ACTIVITIES

The Sathya Sai Centres and Groups of New Zealand conducted a regional sports event for men, women, and children on 8th March 2014 at St. Leonards Road School, Kelston. Sathya Sai Young Adults took an active part in organising games for the children, who enjoyed playing relays, musical chairs, and obstacle courses. Older children participated in a sack race. Human values were incorporated into all the games, reinforcing what the children had learned in SSE classes.

As many as 80 Sathya Sai members attended the National Active Workers Retreat in Auckland from 14th–16th March 2014, despite the bad weather that prevented many from travelling. The five human values were the central focus of the retreat. The programme emphasised the importance of EHV, learning to love with firmness in challenging situations, and developing the willpower to follow one's conscience always. Many activities and organisational matters pertaining to the SSIO of New Zealand were discussed, and plans were made for moving forward with Bhagawan's vision of world peace and prosperity.

Workshop on mentoring of youth

Human Value stall at Avatar Declaration Day

DEVOTIONAL ACTIVITIES

“Service Is Love in Action” was the theme chosen for the Sai Youth Conference held in Papamoa, New Zealand, from 31st January to 2nd February 2014. The conference was attended by 120 youth, including seven from Australia and one from Fiji. The New Zealand Sathya Sai Young Adults have participated actively in community-adoption programmes in their respective regions. Over the past year, they helped disadvantaged youth impacted by youth suicide, alcohol abuse, and obesity. They also helped to organise mentoring workshops for academic and personal progress.

DISASTER RELIEF

In September 2010, a devastating 7.1 magnitude earthquake rocked Christchurch. Since then, more than 13,500 aftershocks have occurred. In the aftermath of these earthquakes, the SSIO of New Zealand provided petrol and food vouchers to a number of people needing aid. Further assistance was provided to Fernhill School, which lost a great deal of equipment during the earthquakes. Members from local Sathya Sai Centres, joined by Sathya Sai volunteers from Wellington, went door-to-door in the affected areas, distributing blankets, home cooked food, and good cheer. These tokens of love were received warmly by those affected by the earthquakes.

AVATAR DECLARATION DAY

Avatar Declaration Day was celebrated over the weekend of 19th–20th October 2013 in Auckland, attracting 450 participants. A Community Fun Day was held at Rongomai Primary School on the first day. Five stalls were set up, each featuring one of the five human values in a novel manner. Visitors to the stalls were asked to participate actively, making the experience more memorable. A medical camp was conducted on the first day, with doctors and nurses serving 53 patients. The second day featured a travelling music festival, the Youth BUS (Bhajans Unlimited for Sai). During this event, Sai Young Adults travelled in a bus to a number of Sathya Sai Centres in Auckland, where they sang devotional songs.

BHAGAWAN'S MAHA SAMADHI OBSERVANCE

Bhagawan's Maha Samadhi was observed in Auckland with a programme on the theme, "Be Happy." An estimated 500 people attended the event, featuring educational and entertaining presentations, including an outstanding play titled "99 Gold Coins."

PHILIPPINES

COMMUNITY SERVICES

Once every month, Sathya Sai volunteers undertake "Livelihood Service" by collecting and distributing about 1,000 kilogrammes of fabric remnants to approximately 35 women in need. The women are given training to produce useful household items, which they can sell in local markets to generate income.

Sathya Sai volunteers served an orphanage in Antipolo, operated by the Missionaries of Charity, founded by Mother Teresa. Lunch was served once a month, and the volunteers also provided the orphanage with a month's supply of milk, beans, and laun-

DISASTER RELIEF FOR VICTIMS OF TYPHOON HAIYAN

On 8th November 2013, a Category 5 typhoon, named Haiyan, made landfall in Guiuan, a small town in the Eastern Samar province of the Philippines. The storm affected an estimated 15 million people, with 6,000 reported dead. In the town of Samar, the roof of a house belonging to a Sathya Sai devotee was blown away in the storm, and the walls collapsed. Only the altar, with its picture of Bhagawan, remained miraculously unaffected by the storm. The SSIO of the Philippines sprang into action immediately. On 16th November, Sathya Sai volunteers loaded a 20-foot container with goods and supplies, including 351 family packs containing food and other items. They transported the container by barge to the island of Biliran, arriving on 23rd November. The food and supplies were distributed to the needy by the wife of the local congressman of Biliran province.

On 17th November 2013, Sathya Sai volunteers from the Philippines conducted a medical camp for the benefit of 250 medical and 150 dental patients at Bagong Nayon II Elementary School, Padilla, Antipolo City.

By early December 2013, debris had been cleared, and government relief supplies were widely distributed, but the need for humanitarian relief remained. Accordingly, the SSIO began planning for medical camps and distribution of food, water, and basic necessities on a long-term basis. During the first week of January 2014, Sathya Sai doctors and volunteers toured the badly-damaged areas of Tacloban, Ormoc, and Biliran to assess the needs, to contact local officials, and to secure a local base camp for future operations.

In early February 2014, Sathya Sai medical volunteers from the Philippines and other countries conducted medical camps in the town of Ormoc and on the island of Biliran. From 10th–11th February, 760 people received medical services in Ormoc, two hours by road from Tacloban. During 12th–14th February, several medical camps were organised on the island of Biliran, serving 310 people in Atipolo, 465 in Calungpang, and at least 385 in Larrazbal. About 400 kilogrammes of medicines, including analgesics, antibiotics, and diarrhoea medications were distributed, and food supplements and milk powder were also offered to the needy. Sathya Sai volunteers also served daily meals of rice, vegetables, and beans in a local area of Tacloban.

Several villages in the municipality of Basey, located some 20 kilometres from the City of Tacloban, were hit hard by typhoon Haiyan. In March 2014, the SSIO organised a visit by three physicians from the USA and a registered nurse from Australia, along with three physicians and six dentists from Manila, who set up camps in Rawit, near Basey. The Philippine military local command in Basey provided trucks to transport patients as well as to deliver large quantities of medicines and medical items. Direct Relief International (DRI) Inc., a nongovernment relief organisation, provided a large quantity of medicines and supplements for the Basey Medical Camp, including 12 wheelchairs. Over the five-day period, 3rd–7th March 2014, doctors and dentists rendered high-quality medical and dental care to about 3,500 and 800 patients, respectively. All children were given hygiene packs to help them maintain personal care. Wheelchairs were donated to nine villages, for the elderly and individuals with disabilities. Travelling was challenging at times, due to the rough terrain, and transporting medicines and supplies often posed a problem. One Sathya Sai volunteer, for example, travelled 25 hours by bus to bring 900 kilograms of medicines to Tacloban.

The SSIO continues to provide meals daily in a local area of Tacloban, usually consisting of rice, vegetables, and beans—all purchased from local farms and served lovingly by Sathya Sai volunteers. Besides offering food at the villages, the volunteers also distribute clothing to the children.

In March 2014, with the assistance of the SSIO of Hong Kong, a project was launched to rebuild the only communal toilet for pupils in a local school and the only toilet for teachers. The existing facilities and structures were dilapidated and presented a safety hazard to children and teachers. Both the toilets have since then been reconstructed. This was acknowledged as an unprecedented contribution by a nongovernmental organisation in the last 30 years.

Each participant was given a human values passport at the beginning, which was then stamped at every station on the route, and a gift at the end of the walk. The authorities in Geneva issued the permit for the event free of charge, which is rarely done. The local municipality even supplied tables and chairs and donated gifts for the participants.

“The fulfilment of human life consists in the service that the human being renders, without any thought of return, in an attitude of selflessness. Service rendered in this spirit sheds light in the dark interior of a person. It widens the heart. It purifies the impulses and confers lasting ānanda (bliss).”

In commemoration of Avatar Declaration Day in October 2013, Sathya Sai volunteers of Lithuania joined the SSIO Serve the Planet initiative through service and devotional events. Sandwiches, snacks, and delicacies were distributed to the needy, both those living at home and in shelters. A hot meal was cooked for visitors at a Sathya Sai canteen in Klaipeda. Open meetings were arranged for the public, and the programmes included a presentation of the movie “His Work,” devotional singing, and sharing experiences of service and Sai love. In three major Lithuanian cities, 60–90 people attended these meetings. Many visitors expressed gratitude, but the most touching response came in the form of a question from a homeless guest: “When will we have the next feast like this one?”

NETHERLANDS

A team of loving Sathya Sai volunteers offers weekly English lessons in a detention centre for asylum seekers who have been rejected, giving them a moment of respite from the unfortunate situation of being unwanted.

During the school year, a weekly “Heart for Each Other” children’s club is hosted by a dedicated team of SSE teachers and Sathya Sai volunteers in a low-income neighbourhood, with creative and playful character-building activities for a group of children 4–10 years old.

From 24th–26th January 2014, an annual Sathya Sai Baba weekend was organised with 26 participants. The group appreciated the opportunity to come together to pray, sing, meditate, study, and enjoy nature.

BHAGAWAN’S MAHA SAMADHI OBSERVANCE

In observance of Maha Samadhi Day, various service activities were undertaken. Food was prepared and served to the homeless people. Gardening was done for people who were too old or sick to care for the gardens themselves. A beautiful testimony came from an elderly man who could no longer care for his garden due to illness. Four youth worked all afternoon and into the evening on this gardening project. Touched by their loving service, the next day he asked the neighbourhood nurse, who is a member of the Sathya Sai Centre, if he could attend the Sathya Sai meeting, to see and experience what gave these youth such motivation. Although the physical effort was challenging for him, he greatly enjoyed the bhajans.

The Dutch-Belgian Sathya Sai community celebrated the 25th anniversary of the SSIO of Netherlands with an event on the theme, “Dharma.” It featured speakers, musicians, and workshops, attracting 164 participants from both the Netherlands and Belgium. A service activity was part of the event, wherein children baked cookies and decorated beautiful paper hearts with hand-written personal messages. These then were distributed to seniors living in a retirement home, and a Sathya Sai choir sang beautiful and uplifting songs as the cookies were distributed.

POLAND

COMMUNITY SERVICES

During 1st–7th July 2013, the ninth annual Sai Boundless Service Camp was held, during which 58 volunteers from Lithuania, Germany, the Netherlands, Bosnia Herzegovina, Slovakia, and India joined the SSIO of Poland to serve the needy. Doctors, masseuses, a psychologist, and a chiropractor offered their services. The doctors saw 133 patients and made 15 home visits; the masseuses administered 435 massages; and teams of Sathya Sai volunteers gave free haircuts to 99 individuals. Sathya Sai volunteers also renovated houses, distributed clothing, repaired bicycles, and transported people and materials. A Sathya Sai construction team built a playground for children, pouring a foundation, building a fence, and painting benches. Two teams, responsible for EHV programmes in two villages with children from ages 3–16, organised dance, music, games, stories, dramas, painting, and other creative activities. At the conclusion of the service camp, a festival was organised in each village, to which the entire village—parents, camp participants, and the mayor—were invited. The children presented an artistic programme and displayed what they had done over the week.

DEVOTIONAL ACTIVITIES

In 2013 the SSIO of Poland organised a regional and national Sathya Sai meeting in conjunction with a public concert given by Dana Gillespie. This was the 3rd regional gathering of Sathya Sai devotees from Region 73 of SSIO, Zone 7. The meeting took place in Wieżyca, during 1st–4th May 2013, with 170 people attending, including 35 Sathya Sai devotees from abroad. Lectures, workshops, dramas, and artistic programmes were organised around the theme, “I Am Love.” Dana Gillespie, the official guest, shared memories of her last conversation with Bhagawan. She gave a splendid public concert in Sopot, preceded by a performance of the Sarva Dharma International Choir. The concert attracted 210 people, including about 50 passers-by who came in spontaneously from the street.

In October 2013, the “Sarva Dharma” Choir of Region 73 performed three public concerts, with 17 spiritual songs, sung in 11 different languages. About 100 people attended the first concert, held at the Evangelical-Reformed Church in the centre of Warsaw. The second concert was a chamber concert at the Lutheran Church in Zyrardow. The third concert took place at the Resursa in Zyrardow, where an audience of about 100 people gave a standing ovation.

SWEDEN

The Sathya Sai Centre of Stockholm serves the homeless regularly. They carry out this service in cooperation with a welfare organisation that maintains a restaurant for homeless people. Sathya Sai volunteers bake cakes and donate items such as toothpaste, shampoo, socks, and first-aid parcels. Every year several churches work together and distribute food to the homeless, and twice a year Sathya Sai volunteers participate by cooking vegetarian food and serving it at the restaurant for the homeless.

DEVOTIONAL ACTIVITIES

About 45 SSIO members from Sweden, Norway, Denmark, the Netherlands, and Germany participated in a North European gathering in Ödeshög, Sweden, in spring 2013, to reflect upon love and leadership. Ms. Petra von Kalinowski, Chair of Zone 7 of the SSIO, spoke on Bhagawan's message about spiritual transformation through service, emphasising the importance of developing character and team spirit. Ms. Marianne Meyer, Member of the Prasanthi Council, spoke about the path to spiritual excellence, with exciting stories to illustrate the point. Mr. Jan Floris from the Netherlands spoke about love and leadership and gave examples from his own work experiences. A programme was held on Saturday evening on "Service of Gratitude to God, Mother Earth, and the Five Elements." Devotional songs expressing gratitude in various European languages were sung, and afterward, the participants assembled to share their personal experiences and interactions with Bhagawan.

COMMUNITY SERVICES

Mahali Pa Usalama in Tudor, Mombasa County, Kenya, is a rescue and recovery centre operated by the Catholic Archdiocese of Mombasa for children who have been sexually exploited, trafficked, neglected, or tortured. COMMUNITY SERVICES

Abu Dhabi is the capital of the United Arab Emirates. It is located in one of the hottest and most humid geographic regions of the world. For at least five months in a year the weather is harsh to unbearable for outdoor work such as gardening, landscaping, road cleaning, and repairs to public properties. Workers are exposed to extreme sun and dust. The Abu Dhabi Sathya Sai Centre provides these workers with pure drinking water and refreshing packs of fresh Laban, a local variety of slightly salted buttermilk. This service, which commenced on 27th May 2013 and ran through October 2013, protects the worker against dehydration. On weekends, Sathya Sai volunteers collect fresh water and the Laban packs from the factory. The volunteers divide into groups, spread out over Abu Dhabi, and distribute this refreshment at work sites scattered throughout the city and its suburbs. Workers, sweltering in the heat, thank the Sathya Sai volunteers profusely, repeating, “Al Hamdulillah (Thank you, Lord),” and “Allaho Akbar (God is great).” Sometimes the service is carried out at pre-arranged construction sites.

Distributing food to workers

Most labourers in the Gulf area live by themselves, away from loved ones, and rely on institutional food, prepared in bulk, in their camps. Twice a month Sathya Sai volunteers prepare wholesome, home-cooked meals and serve the workers with love. The volunteers prepare and deliver food to pre-arranged packaging locations.

Distribution of water

Packets are assembled containing fresh, home-cooked vegetable pulau (rice pilaf), mixed vegetables, yogurt rice, apples, cold Laban, and a sweet. The hampers are packed into larger cartons, and delivered prior to Friday afternoon prayers. Each month an average of 1,400 food packets are distributed to selected labour camps. Around 210 Sathya Sai volunteer families participate in this service activity of feeding the needy.

In honour of the Serve the Planet initiative, the SSIO of Abu Dhabi distributed food packets containing rice, lentils, and oil to 70 labourers of various nationalities at a labour camp.
